Shade/Woodland

There are lots of great new options for low-light gardens, including plants with variegated leaves and non-traditional colours and textures. No longer are gardeners limited to using dark green leafy plants in the shade.

Acanthus mollis Tasmanian Angel™
Variegated bear's breeches

The first variegated acanthus. Found in Tasmania, this gem offers striking, bold leaves with white margins and mottling. This plant forms a large clump of 90-120 cm (3-4 ft.) tall ornamental flower stalks of pink and cream in late summer. Tolerant of most soils, it thrives in deep, fertile, moist and well-drained conditions in full to partial shade.

Amsonia montana 'Short Stack'
Dwarf bluestar

This dwarf form creates a perfect mound of clean, dark green foliage, with medium sky-blue flowers in early spring. Well suited for smaller gardens and the border's edge. Sun to partial shade. Grows 25-30 cm (10-12 in.) tall.

Aquilegia 'White Barlow'
'White Barlow' double columbine

Dahlia-like double white flowers pop in a shady location. This double columbine grows 50-65 cm (20-25 in.) tall and blooms in spring.

Athyrium 'Ocean's Fury'
'Ocean's Fury' painted fern

This plant is named because the habit and colouring resemble ocean waves crashing on the shore. This upright and crested fern from Thurman Maness is a wonderful addition to lighten up shady areas, or in the woodland garden. It prefers fertile, moist soils and full to partial shade.

perennials for shade/woodland

Bergenia 'Solar Flare'

'Solar Flare' variegated bergenia

A new twist on a classic garden perennial, this plant has bold evergreen leaves with a cream edged border that turns brilliant shrimp pink during winter. It's an excellent winter container plant topped with pink flowers in the spring. Colour appears on new growth in spring, fading to green in late summer. Part shade to full sun.

Brunnera macrophylla 'Mr. Morse'

'Mr. Morse' Siberian bugloss

Frosty, silver foliage with light green veins and edging combine perfectly with creamy white flowers. Brunnera have high deer resistance, and prefers a shady location. This cultivar grows 25-37.5 cm (10-15 in.) tall.

Brunnera macrophylla 'Spring Yellow'

'Spring Yellow' Siberian bugloss

Unusual yellow foliage with contrasting blue flowers. Grows 25-37.5 cm (10-15 in.) tall. Proven deer resistance.

Corydalis 'Chocolate Stars'

'Chocolate Stars' corydalis

A gorgeous low growing woodland plant with chocolate brown foliage in spring, reminiscent of coleus. Small white starry flowers in summer change to green as the season progresses. Unlike most other corydalis, 'Chocolate Stars' will tolerate dry shade. This is a good groundcover choice and an excellent companion to other woodland plants such as hostas, ferns, and primulas. Grows 30 cm (12 in.) tall in partial to full shade. Photo courtesy of Vitro Westland.

Hakonechloa macra 'Stripe It Rich'

Variegated gold Japanese forest grass

White-striped golden leaves put a new spin on the shade tolerant Hakonechloa. 'Stripe It Rich' grows vigorously in full to partial sun. It is spectacular as a woodland accent in containers, along pathways or entrances, and adds an Asian look to the garden.

Heuchera Dolce® Blackcurrant

Dolce® Blackcurrant coral bells

Dolce® Blackcurrant boasts a two-toned leaf of bold purple and sterling silver accents that make a dramatic statement in beds or in containers. Vigorous and cold-hardy, colour deepens as the weather cools. It does best in full to partial shade and reaches a height of 30-40 cm (12-16 in.).

Heuchera 'Georgia Peach'

'Georgia Peach' coral bells

This is a first in the new Southern Bell series of villosa hybrids that were bred for heat and humidity tolerance. In spring, it produces 20 cm (8 in.) peach coloured leaves with a showy silver overlay that creates a large, lush plant. The foliage colour intensifies to rose purple with a decorative frosted veil in fall and winter. Best in full to partial shade. Grows 35 cm (14 in.) tall and spreads 60 cm (24 in.)

Hosta 'June Fever' 'June Fever' hosta

A nearly all-gold form of 'June' with very narrow blue-green margins and glossy golden foliage. Superb spring colour. Good substance and slug resistance. An extremely hardy hosta. Grows 40-60 cm (16-24 in.) high and wide in shade or partial shade. Photos courtesy of Vitro Westland.

Sun

Sun-loving perennials are a staple in the perennial border, but can also find a comfortable home as colour accents or filler in a shrub border or foundation planting.

Ajuga reptans 'Toffee Chip' 'Toffee Chip' carpet bugleweed

This small-leaved groundcover is a fun departure from Ajuga 'Chocolate Chip'. Mature leaves have creamy gold margins around shades of gray green in the centre. New leaves display brown and khaki shades. Blue flowers bloom from 12.5 cm (5 in.) spikes. Grows 30 cm (12 in.) wide and 5 cm (2 in.) tall in full sun to part shade.

Campanula persicifolia 'Blue-Eyed Blonde' Golden peachleaf bellflower

Brilliant yellow foliage gives rise to large 2.5 cm (1 in.) bells of deep-blue flowers.

Coreopsis tripteris 'Lightning Flash' 'Lightning Flash' tickseed

'Lightning Flash' is a new bold tickseed with striking gold foliage that stays gold all summer. It's perfect for the perennial border, reaching over 90 cm (3 ft.). It thrives in heat and humidity. The yellow flowers are a bonus in late summer. Does best in full sun.

Delphinium grandiflorum 'Summer Morning' 'Summer Morning' delphinium

The Summer delphinium series brings the first pink flowering grandiflorum type to the market with the breeding breakthrough of 'Summer Morning'. Like the pink skies of an early summer sunrise, Delphinium 'Summer Morning' paints the landscape with its delicate, light pink flowers over lacy green leaves. 'Summer Morning' is more heat tolerant and better branched than other delphiniums of this type. Early flowering, coupled with a strong, basal branching habit ensures that 'Summer Morning' will provide a multitude of flowers throughout the summer.

perennials for sun

'Sunny Jackpot'
'Sunny Jackpot'
sea holly

Blue flowers sit atop variegated foliage, making this variety very unique. Grows 50-65 cm (20-25 in.) tall.

Helianthus 'Low Down'
'Low Down' sunflower

The shortest of all perennial sunflowers, this is a terrific plant for adding a splash of bright colour to the front of a sunny autumn border. It forms a low mound of narrow green leaves, bearing sprays of bright golden-yellow single daisies with a brown eye in fall. Great in containers too. Height 15 cm (6 in.) in full sun to partial shade. Photo courtesy of Vitro Westland.

Erysimum 'Jenny Brook'
'Jenny Brook' wallflower

Striking multi-coloured flowers top this tender, shrubby perennial. Purple buds open to peach flowers. It matures through rose and then back to purple, giving a full range of simultaneous colours. It grows 50-60 cm (20-24 in.) tall by 60 cm (24 in.) wide in full sun. This is eye-catching near the front of a border, or in containers. Shear if necessary to enhance plant shape after flowering stops. A tender perennial.

Helichrysum 'Pink Sapphire'
'Pink Sapphire' strawflower

An intriguing novelty tender perennial or annual, provides cute spherical flower buds that form pleasing clusters over silvery, woolly leaves. Buds open to small, stiff papery flowers that persist into summer. Its soft silver foliage begs to be touched. Grows to 15 cm (6 in.) tall by 30 cm (12 in.) wide in full sun. Unlike most garden plants, flowers are more interesting in the bud stage.

Helleborus Splashdown strain

Helianthemum nummularium 'Hartswood Ruby'
Hartswood Ruby rockrose

True red is a precious pigment for the perennial garden palette. Hartswood Ruby provides it on low-growing, easy-care plants. Saucer-shaped, 2.5 cm (1 in.) flowers of velvety true red with bright golden stamens persist from May into July — a month longer than other Helianthemum varieties. Shear in very early spring, cutting away dead foliage. Cut back hard every two to three years. Grows 35 cm (14 in.) tall by 55 cm (22 in.) wide first year. The plant thrives in well-drained, neutral to alkaline soil in full sun.

It produces small white flowers in the summer. Prefers full sun to partial shade and will grow to 30 cm (12 in.) and spreads the same distance.

Iris 'Enchanted One' Tall bearded Iris

No garden would be complete without the tall bearded iris. It is a wonderful accent plant for the late spring garden. Sunny yellow standards stand tall above the amber rimmed falls with lavender centres. These sweetly fragrant blooms grow to 90 cm (36 in.)

Backyard Ecotopia: Sustainable landscaping in your own backyard

Think Globally, Act Locally. Whether it's saving rainwater, conserving energy, recycling old construction materials, landscaping with native plants and trees, or composting kitchen scraps, you can do something worthwhile in your own backyard to help conserve the natural environment in your community. Many of us live in urban neighborhoods and other built-up areas, so it's no wonder that we often forget the connection between the way we live and the health of the natural environment. Yet the two are closely linked. The actions we take and the choices we make in our own backyards and gardens can mean healthier drinking water, soils, air and wildlife — now, and for the future.

The Backyard Ecotopia garden at Canada Blooms (G-4) features choices for backyard living that are both beneficial for people and good for the natural environment, whether that environment is upstream or downstream from where you live or as far away as the Great Lakes. It demonstrates how backyard gardeners can reduce waste, water and energy consumption; produce nutrient-rich garden soils; and create inviting backyard habitat for native species of wildlife. Following the show, the components of this garden feature will be donated to local conservation and environmental education projects.

define a room outdoors

Enlightened landscape design starts with people. Make an outdoor room for meals or conversation, then let your planning radiate out. The idea is not new — formal gardens created for European royalty used this same concept, only the rooms were bigger. Smaller scale means greater comfort anyway. And we enjoy advantages crowned heads never dreamed of: weatherproof fabrics, radiant heaters, even high-end outdoor sound systems.

Blur the line between outdoors and in, to get more value from both.

Many outdoor rooms are defined by verticals; this space is created by floor and pergola ceiling. The room is set at an angle from lot lines for more interest. Inside & Out Garden Design, Toronto

restful retreat

Dry-laid cut limestone gives a resort feeling to this poolside gathering area. Yards Unlimited Landscaping, Nepean

This city project, overlooking Toronto's High Park, is definitely a room with a view. Meadow-style plantings complement the home's green roof. Perennial Gardens, Toronto

room to dream

Far from rustic, an outdoor living pavilion carries an Asian theme, reflecting the owners' penchant for travel. This project earned Landscape Ontario's Dunington-Grubb award, denoting the top-scoring entry for the season. (Additional photos appear on page 43.) International Landscaping, Hornby tranquil privacy

Great proportions on a lattice screen, planned for air, light, just enough green and just enough privacy. This elevated patio with hot tub sees winter use, as well. S. Rebelo Landscapes, Hamilton

citychic

Ontario is vast and wild, yet our cities have strong Old World flavour. Urban homeowners regard their outdoor spaces as private courtyards, often interpreted with eurostyle sophistication. A balcony rail is the property line, a bright awning is shade and a strawberry jar planted with herbs is the kitchen garden.

Serenity is where you find it.

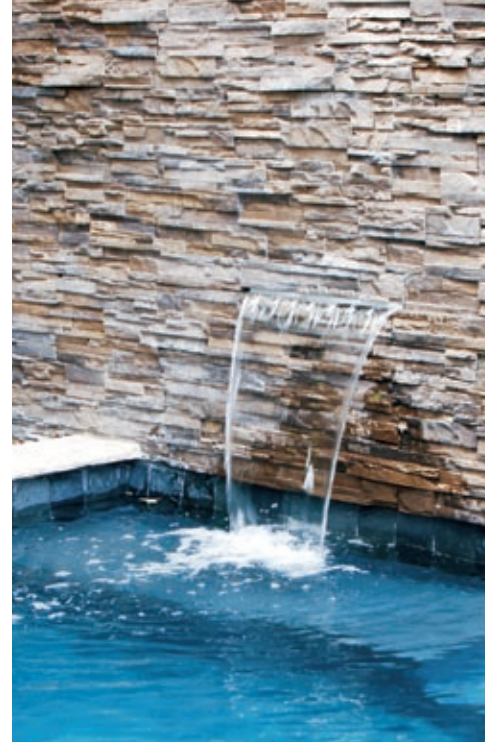

*modular

Planters on a rooftop are mini green roofs — mounted on wheels to satisfy condo requirements. The specimens, including weigela, hydrangea, dogwood, Japanese maple and purple sandcherry, stray far from traditional planter choices. Perennial Gardens, Toronto

Do not fear to subdivide small spaces. Unified materials, multiple levels and surprise frosted panels make the most of modest square footage. Welwyn Wong Landscape Design, Ottawa

A water weir, visible from all points in a city garden, spills softly into a swimming pool. It turns the pool into a large, stunning water feature when swimmers are not around. The Beach Gardener, Toronto

small scale drama

Just a few foliage types, selected intelligently for colour, bring life to a stark balcony. A teak planter was designed and built in modular components to fit the elevator. The Lexan screen above admits light while it assures privacy. Garden Creations of Ottawa, Ottawa woody plants

Berberis thunbergii 'Maria'
Sunjoy™ Gold Pillar barberry

An upright golden barberry with red new growth, its best colour is in full sun. Tested against other varieties, Sunjoy™ Gold Pillar shows superior burn resistance. Sunjoy™ grows 90-120 cm (3-4 ft.) tall. Tolerant of most soil conditions, it will withstand dry conditions once established, and does not like extremely moist conditions. Hybridized in Poland. Hardy to zone 5.

Berberis thunbergii 'Moretti Select'
First Editions™ Cabernet™ barberry

Bright crimson new growth is followed by deep burgundy-red to purple foliage. The rich colour stands out all season and is the perfect compliment for plants with golden leaves. In fall, leaves turn to tones of orange and scarlet, complemented by shiny red berries. Cabernet™ barberry has a rounded habit and is drought tolerant once established. It's generally not eaten by deer. This low maintenance plant needs no pruning. Hardy to zone 5.

Buddleja 'Butterfly Heaven'
Butterfly Heaven butterfly bush

This beautiful flowering shrub's large, fragrant flowers attract butterflies to the garden like no other family of plants. Long, tapering panicles of tiny, sweetly scented lavender florets, with orange eyes, form on plants from late summer into fall. Few plants are easier for professionals or gardeners to grow — cut back almost to the ground in early spring. This selection was personally selected by Adrian Bloom of Blooms of Bressingham. Hardy to zone 6.

Hibiscus syriacus 'America Irene Scott'
Sugar Tip™ rose of Sharon

This variegated Hibiscus blooms with clear, double pink flowers in late summer. Can grow as tall as 2.4 m (8 ft.) tall in full sun. Beautiful as a privacy screen or in specimen planting. Rose of Sharon is typically one of the latest plants to leaf out in the spring, so patience is needed. Once the leaves unfurl, the plant will quickly catch up to the others in your garden. Hardy to zone 6.

Hydrangea macrophylla 'Lynn'

Let's Dance™ Starlight hydrangea

Let's Dance is the first-ever lacecap hydrangea that blooms on new wood with large flowers on strong stems. Does best in full sun to partial shade and prefers a well-drained soil amended with organic matter. The breeder says Let's Dance™ Starlight hydrangea is a good choice for gardeners in northern climates where Hydrangea macrophylla has difficulty blooming. Hardy to zone 6.

Hydrangea paniculata 'DVPinky'

Pinky Winky™ hydrangea

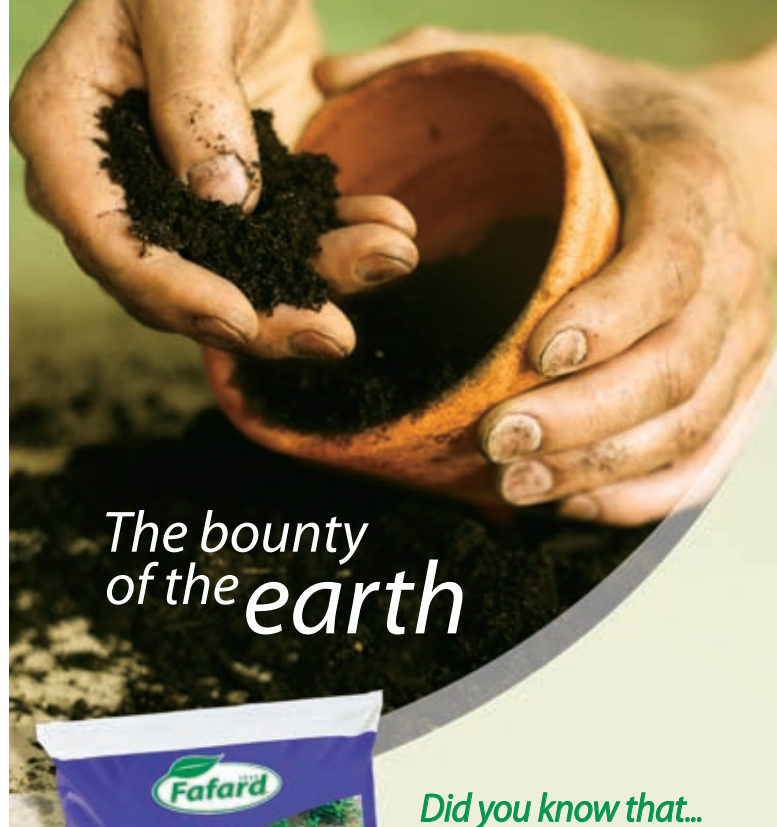

A very unique hardy hydrangea with massive two-toned, white and pink flowers in mid-summer. Strong upright red stems hold the large, 30-40 cm (12-16 in.) blooms up so you never get the drooping look like Pee Gee hydrangea. The flower heads continue to grow throughout the season and as the older flowers turn dark pink the new flowers continue to emerge white. The effect is stunning. A truly remarkable plant for the summer and autumn landscape. Hardy to zone 5. Photo courtesy www.provenwinners.com.

Weigela florida 'Carlton'

Ghost™ weigela

Ghost™ weigela has deep, dark red flowers in spring, but the main attraction is the foliage which turns to a ghostly, iridescent, translucent butter cream as summer progresses. Best in full sun. Reaches a mature height of 1.2 to 1.5 m (4 - 5 ft.). Hardy to zone 5.

Garden Inspiration roses

Rosa 'BAIgirl'

My Girl, Easy Elegance® shrub rose

Easy Elegance® roses have been bred with the goal of taking the fear out of growing roses. Each plant in the Easy Elegance collection is as simple to grow as any flowering shrub. These roses are low-maintenance, hardy, disease-resistant plants that bloom all season long. My Girls has round, deep pink buds held in clusters of five to 30, opening to blossoms so full they almost hide the centres. Backed by medium green foliage, this rose has proven highly resistant to black spot with little to no defoliation. Its compact, upright habit and good repeat bloom can be used in foundations, shrub borders and as an informal hedge or accent. Grown on its own root.

Rosa 'BAIrage'

All the Rage, Easy Elegance® shrub rose

Multi-coloured blooms with tight, coral buds, swirl open to apricot-coloured blossoms with luminous yellow centres. Blooms age to lipstick pink before dropping cleanly away. Clean, disease-resistant foliage on round form makes for a shrub rose useful in borders or as an informal hedge. Grown on its own root.

Rosa 'BAIsuhe'

Super Hero, Easy Elegance® shrub rose

Gardeners don't need to be a super hero to grow great roses. Without super human effort, they'll be able to enjoy gorgeous, hybrid tea-shaped blooms all season long. Clusters of perfect, red blossoms stand out strongly against clean, medium to dark green, satiny foliage. This neat, compact, disease-resistant shrub is ideal in the border or foundation planting. Grown on its own root.

Rosa 'PROse'

Burgundy Iceberg™ floribunda rose

This new rose has terrific flower production with deep purple-red burgundy and cream blooms. This floribunda has everything — a bushy habit, lovely buds, showy clusters, glossy green foliage and nearly thornless stems along with a mild honey fragrance.

design with perennials

Massed perennials are replacing woody plants in structural roles, as designers respond to more adventuresome client tastes. Perennials are simply more interesting than your basic juniper. Colours can be striking or muted. Growth habits are varied and distinctive. Perennial flowers have fanciful forms and often, lovely fragrances.

Perennials: less structural than trees and shrubs, but effects can be compelling.

form plus colour

Depend on three favourites when you want to build structure with perennials: indestructible daylilies, the feathery yet assertive lavender spikes of Russian sage and blue fescue ornamental grass — porcupine of the garden.
Ladell Landscaping & Gardens, Ottawa

Artfully placed stones and massed heads of sedum echo the Canadian Shield. At upper right, in a more formal area, contrasting ornamental grasses define space just as strongly as the clipped hedge. Evergreen Landscaping and Lawn Maintenance, Hamilton

After receiving 25 cubic yards of new, rich soil, this garden was ready for masses of low-maintenance ornamental grasses and perennials. Mulch and irrigation help keep monthly maintenance requirements below four hours. Ladell Landscaping & Gardens, Ottawa

turf ties it together

Canadians love their lawns. Maybe the affair starts in childhood, associated with the smell of grass stains. Since you can grow a healthy lawn several ways, you are free to use turf in a way that is right for your property and your lifestyle. Benefits are more than a soft, clean, cool, oxygen-producing groundcover.

Turf is the green ribbon that ties your landscape design together.

garden trends

Conserve resources,
minimize maintenance,
continue to enjoy beauty

By Allan Dennis

Although we gardeners may be quick to embrace the hottest new cultivar, we are much slower to accept a new trend. We do not like changes to our favourite design or colour palette. But, sometimes we may not have a choice. Today's environmental concerns have gardeners embracing change, change that is not simply a response to fashion trends.

During a trip to British Columbia this fall, I had the good fortune to hear Sally Gregson, one of Britain's foremost gardeners. A highly respected horticulturist, she has written widely for gardening magazines, appeared on the BBC and is a sought-after guest speaker. Two key words Gregson used throughout her presentation, “Trends for a new century,” were sustainability and matrix.

Yellow and orange, set off by clear complementary blue, make a successful matrix mix at the Fetzer Wines garden.

Garden for sustainability

“Gardens reflect the times in which they are created,” said Gregson. “More concern about the environment is influencing design and content. New garden design is about being in the natural world. Plants now must be able to tolerate drought conditions and handle specific soils. Immaculate lawns have been turned into meadow gardens.”

Gregson noted that, “It’s a new naturalization; a move towards reflecting nature, but with the instinctive human need to improve upon it.” She explained that other aspects of sustainable gardening include backyard composting and rainwater collection.

The sustainability trend also involves new interest in vegetable gardens. “The fastest-growing garden segment in the United Kingdom is veggies.” Gregson said. Many people in her country are growing vegetables among their flowering plants.

Colour is not the only tool available for intermingling — Gregson created this effect using texture for contrast.

Perennial grasses are ideal choices for sustainable gardening. As a bonus, naturalized drifts create their own pleasing design over time.

Crowd out weeds

Matrix planting, according to Gregson, means choosing and managing plants to occupy space so effectively that no room is left for weeds. Plant selection is key to success. Poor choices result in dominance by one or two species, and the disappearance of those that cannot compete.

Interweaving two to three types of plants into one floral display creates a matrix. Colours can range from the hot side of the palette, with orange and reds dominating, and toward non-traditional choices, such as blue or pinks. “The trend is towards bright, harsh colours, in large displays, with all plants the same height,” says Gregson. She noted that no more than three types of plants should be intermingled.

Her photos highlighted some of England’s famous gardens: Lady Farm, Somerset Fetzer Wines and Hidcote. Gregson also showed displays from the famous Chelsea show, the U.K.’s Canada Blooms, to demonstrate the trend towards gardens designed for sustainability. Some of the display gardens reflected a move towards meadow gardening.

Whether you embrace new trends, or stick with the tried and true, it’s still all about the joy and satisfaction that gardens provide. And no matter what trend is in style, working in the garden is a good thing for both the soul and the environment. Just think: in a few more weeks, we’ll be able to help both.

Sally Gregson’s professional credentials include running a nursery. See more examples of her work, in both pictures and words, at www.millcottageplants.co.uk.

Trial gardens ID good plant performers for your area

By Rodger Tschanz, University of Guelph trial garden manager

Choosing your bedding plants can feel a little like gambling — performance in your garden may not measure up to the photo on the tag. New cultivars are marketed each year, in more colours, and they are distributed widely across the continent. Picking good performers for southern Ontario can be a chancy bet.

You can improve your odds using research from the University of Guelph Trial Garden. The garden is always open to visitors, and you can browse results from the past few years at www.plant.uoguelph.ca/trialgarden. We have expanded the trials to Landscape Ontario Horticultural Trades Association east of Milton — be sure to enjoy the colour this season as you zip by on the 401, and you are invited to stop in during the week for a closer look.

The following newly released bedding plants performed exceptionally well in the 2007 summer trials at the University of Guelph, and should bring good luck in your home garden.

'Blazin' Lime' iresine

Iresine is a stunning foliage plant; its vigorous growth makes it a great candidate for landscape plantings. Plant in partial sun for the best leaf colour. 'Blazin' Lime's' large leaves with sturdy, rose-coloured stems give way to cream and green multi-coloured leaves; height and spread can range from 45-76 cm.

'Solcito' trailing zinnia

'Solcito' is a new, small-flowered trailing zinnia that blooms through summer without the need for deadheading. It tolerates drought, heat and cool conditions. Use it in both containers and beds, where it can reach a height of 30 cm.

'SuperCal' Petunia and Calibrachoa hybrid

'SuperCal TerraCotta' (pictured) with its bushy habit, and 'SuperCal Neon Rose' with a more prostrate habit, are the best cultivars in this new series.

'Cora' series of Catharanthus

Commonly called vinca or Madagascar periwinkle, this plant thrives under warm, sunny conditions. Its dark, glossy leaves contrast well with the white, pink or violet blooms. The newly released 'Cora' series has great vigour and disease resistance.

'Northern Lights Lavender' Pentas

This new Pentas tolerates both cool and warm growing conditions, making it ideal for the vagaries of Ontario's summers. 'Northern Lights Lavender' will bloom all summer long if grown under sunny conditions. Its nectar attracts butterflies and other pollinators.
